“ (This is her great grand daughter Dottie) I remember the last time she kissed me on the cheek goodbye. I live all the way in North Carolina. I only got to visit her once about every year. Whenever I saw her, we would chat. She asked me about my life and family. I would tell her about topics I know a lot about. She would patiently listen to me. I remember showing her a picture of our dog when we had first got her. I remember her telling me stories of life as a child when she lived on a hill. I remember the last words she said to me on phone “Goodbye”
