“ Our fathers were very close - they worked in our grandfathers auto repair shop as kids, they logged in Maine during the Depression, and they attended Northeastern University together. They were both engineers. One result of all this was that Bill and John, and my sister Sue and brother Dave got together frequently in spite of the fact that we never lived in the same place.

Some of our best times were our annual fishing trips to Canada. In the early years we stayed in cabins that had real ice boxes for refrigeration. There was no electricity so we used kerosene lanterns. Our boats had 5 hp engines! We travelled miles in those slow boats, but caught lots of Walleyes, Northern Perch, and Bass. My that was fun! Great memories for all of us.

Godspeed Cousin Bill!

Don Fisher.
